

The Ninth Guardian General

by nekoral7991

Category: Asura's Wrath

Genre: Adventure, Family

Language: English

Characters: Asura, Mithra, OC, Yasha

Pairings: OC/Mithra

Status: In-Progress

Published: 2016-04-10 07:20:11

Updated: 2016-04-26 00:37:51

Packaged: 2016-04-27 19:41:10

Rating: T

Chapters: 5

Words: 6,017

Publisher: www.fanfiction.net

Summary: The story will follow the original plot from Asura's Wrath, the only difference being that my OC will join the Guardian Generals as the ninth member, as the title explains. There will be some romance between him and Mithra early into the story. Other than that, it will be exactly the same as the original.

1. Demigods vs Gohma

Hey guys! Here's the start of my Asura's Wrath story, The Ninth Guardian General. Hope you enjoy.

I do not own Asura's Wrath, only my OC.

Chapter 1: Demigods vs. Gohma

* * *

>This story is about an ongoing war between the heavenly beings known as Demigods, and the vile creatures called Gohma. In order to protect humans from the unending threat of Gohma, the Demigods governing the world created an ultimate weapon that would wipe the Gohma off the face of the planet once and for all.

Their legions were led by nine elite Demigods - the Nine Guardian Generals. Together, they purified as many of the tainted monsters as they could.

* * *

>The war between the Demigods and the Gohma was about to begin. General Asura, who was currently leading the attack on the Gohma, was standing on the tip of one of the ships and facing towards the planet below them, known as Gaea. As they were getting closer, Asura jumped off the ship and started falling towards the Gohma and began launching a barrage of energy blasts at them, destroying most of them. While fighting, Asura was joined by the many lesser soldiers of Shinkoku, the Taisons, Rashos, and Dojis, while the Kagebosh soldiers were firing at the Gohma from inside the ships. Asura was still firing at the Gohma when he noticed a Lasher heading towards him, causing him to stop firing at the Carriers. He dodged all of the Lasher's attacks and managed to grab onto the Lasher, and rammed it into another nearby Lasher, killing and purifying both of them. He smiled in satisfaction and sped off to destroy more Gohma.

He began firing another barrage of energy blasts at the Carriers, killing the occasional Lasher and Glider. Another Lasher headed towards him, halting his attacks yet again. He grabbed onto the Lasher, and this time, he threw into a nearby Carrier, destroying both of them at the same time.

* * *

>On the Karma Fortress

"Fear not, brave warriors of Shinkoku. Our long struggle against the Gohma shall come to an end tonight. Oh, powerful Demigods, purge our world of the impure Gohma! The lifegiving Mantra is one with you. Faithful people of Shinkoku! Offer your prayers! They will become Mantra to aid us in battle." Mithra chanted.

"Tonight, the Impure have defiled and scorched our land, but it is we who shall live to see tomorrow's light. Legion of Demigods! Heed your priestess' words, and purify our land once and for all!" Emperor Strada called out.

"Let us offer Gaea the greatest blessing, in the name of Emperor Strada! May the Mantra guide you to victory!" Mithra added

* * *

>With Asura

He continued to fire energy blasts at the Gohma, with a nearby Taison soldier firing its own energy blasts alongside his, before it flew off to engage more of the Gohma. He then flew towards a Carrier and kicked it in half and purifying it.

"The Nine Guardian Generals that command you are the veteran elite. Purify any who threaten to desecrate our land, divine warriors of Shinkoku!" Mithra chanted once more.

As Asura was destroying the Gohma, four other Generals flew towards him to aid him in the battle, destroying some nearby Carriers.

"For the cause!" Wyzen shouted, punching through another Carrier. "I will root out all evil, with these great fists!"

The second newly arrived General, Augus, landed on a stray Lasher as two Stingers headed towards him.

"Looks like you want to die first!" he shouted, cutting both Stingers in half, as a Glider flew towards him from behind. "Lucky for you, I can make that happen!" he shouted once more, easliy killing the Glider. He then proceeded to attack the Carrier he landed on, destroying it as well.

The third General, Yasha, quickly flew towards an oncoming Lasher, dodging its attacks and swiftly cutting it into pieces. "Follow me! Drive a wedge between the enemy's forces!" he shouted.

The last of the Generals, Nekora, headed towards a group of Lashers, flew into the first Lasher's mouth and destroyed it from the inside, and then quickly disposed of the other three the same way.

"These vile creatures can't hope to defeat us! We will triumph!" he called out to his fellow soldiers.

"Even if you fall in battle, your soul is eternal. With his Majesty's power, you will be reincarnated in a golden paradise, and rejoice in prosperity for all eternity!" Mithra chanted once more, as Asura punched through a stray Glider.

"Worthless scum!" he yelled. "I'll kill you all!"

He flew towards the Gohma army and once again began firing energy blasts at them. After getting close enough, he started rapidly punching across the side of an oncoming Carrier, breaking it into pieces.

"Now, who's next?!" he shouted.

The five Generals all raced across the sky, slaughtering all Gohma in their sights and causing massive explosions as the creatures were purified.

* * *

>On the Karma Fortress

"Oh, how beautiful life is at its end. True beauty only manifests itself in death." Sergei mused, watching the events of the war on a large screen.

"It would be nice if one could rest for a bit. I do believe that I'm getting too old for all of this." Kalrow said while floating through the air behind Sergei.

"You two should be concerned with the task at hand!" Olga yelled at them.

"Olga, sometimes I wonder if you know me at all. Have you forgotten that I am most concerned when the beauty of destruction is before me?" he asked her.

"My strategies are flawless. There is no need for us to be at the front. You need to sit back and await our victory." Kalrow chimed in.

"How you two became Generals is beyond me." Olga responded. "Commander Deus! Sending reinforcements directly to the front lines!"

"Hmph. Battles such as this that bring temporary peace are meaningless and a waste of my time." Deus said to himself. "Prepare to fire the Brahmastra."

"The Brahmastra? But Commander, it is not yet fully charged." Olga tried explaining to him.

"In its current state, it wouldn't be able to demonstrate its true capability." Kalrow added.

"At times, one must throw a stone into stagnant water to set things into motion. Not just for this battle, but the future of the world itself."

"The Brahmastra. That is an instrument of destruction I would love to hear played." Sergei commented.

"As you wish, Commander." Olga responded.

"Hear me now! Let this blast herald the coming of a new world order!" Deus shouted as the Brahmastra prepared to fire. It then launched a large beam of Mantra into the land below, causing a huge explosion and obliterating most of the remaining Gohma.

"The Brahmastra? But why?" Yasha asked.

"Why not? It shows how serious we are about winning!" Augus answered, flying in between him and Asura.

"Behold! It is Vlitra!" Wyzen called out as he appeared on Asura's other side

"So, Vlitra's awakened, huh? This looks like it's going to be fun." Nekora spoke up from beside Yasha.

The earth started cracking apart before forming a huge crater, where the monstrous Vlitra revealed itself to the Demigods, each having a different reaction to its reappearance. It then opened its mouth, letting out a loud roar, and then began firing numerous lasers at the various ships scattered throughout the sky and destroying most of them. Some of the lasers managed to hit the Karma Fortress, causing it to shake.

"What intense power!" Kalrow exclaimed.

The five Generals outside the ship began racing towards Vlitra, their main goal being to completely obliterate it.

"Stand aside, weaklings! This one's mine!" Augus shouted, speeding in front of the others.

"Get back! You've had your share!" Asura replied.

"You're not the only one who wants to have fun, Master!" Nekora chimed in.

As they were heading towards Vlitra, a group of Lashers appeared in front of them, catching them off guard and forcing everyone but Asura away from their leader. Asura started his final barrage of energy blasts on Vlitra, while dodging the lasers it shot back. Augus and Nekora quickly destroyed the Lashers they were fighting, and went to aid Asura, killing all of the Stingers, Gliders and Lashers that were trying to stop him, getting help from Wyzen and Yasha. Asura suddenly noticed another Carrier flying towards him, causing him to halt his attack on Vlitra and try holding it back, when a Lasher flew up behind him and bit down on the Carrier, intending to eat Asura. Yasha quickly destroyed the Lasher, freeing Asura.

"Watch yourself!" Yasha yelled at him.

"Yasha! Mind your own business!" he shouted back.

Vlitra took advantage of their distraction and began firing more lasers at them. They managed to dodge a few of them, but were both eventually hit by the endless stream of lasers and knocked unconscious. Mithra saw her father and uncle being attacked, and decided to help them by restoring their Mantra, waking them up. Asura sprouted four extra arms as a result of Mithra's assistance, allowing him to engage Vlitra once more.

"This war ends now!" he shouted.

Vlitra fired a third barrage of lasers in response, but Asura, Yasha and Nekora, who had joined them, successfully dodged all of the lasers and flew towards Vlitra, minds completely set on defeating the giant monster. They all began firing their own energy blasts at it, while dodging the lasers it was continuously firing at them. This went on for a while, before Asura sped up to Vlitra and punched it once with each of his three right arms, causing miniature explosions across the top of Vlitra's head and forcing it back into the earth. The war was now over, and the Demigods were once again victorious.

Yasha and Nekora then flew over to Asura.

"What troubles you?" Yasha asked him.

"I... I could not kill it." he responded.

"Yeah, that would be a problem, due to how strong that thing is. But still, you should be grateful you even subdued it. There is always next time, though." Nekora told him. He received a short glare from Asura in response.

"We have suffered more casualties than ever, but it will not be back for a while. We should all get some rest." Yasha advised them.

* * *

>On the Karma Fortress

"Thanks to General Asura's efforts, Vlitra has subsided."

"Purify the surviving Gohma!" Emperor Strada ordered. "The power of my Nine Guardian Generals is invincible! May Shinkoku prosper in everlasting glory!"

"The time is near." Deus said to himself, smiling.

To Be Continued

* * *

>Well, this is chapter 1. The story will basically be the same, except that I've added my OC to it. I hope you guys enjoyed it. This story will cover all events up to Episode 22 of the DLC with some changes made to the original storyline for my OC. That's all I can really say for now, so I'll see you next chapter.

2. OC Description

Okay, so as the chapter's title suggests, I'm going to be describing my OC's personality, appearance and role in the story as well as other details about him.

To start off, when in battle, he is a lot like Augus and wants to be entertained. But outside of battle, he's a very calm and caring person. His Mantra affinity will either be Greed or Violence, due to his similar personality to Augus.

For his appearance, he has long white hair which is tied into a ponytail at the base of his neck, and he wears a trench coat over a black shirt and black pants.

For his role in the story, he will be on Asura's side against the Seven Deities, due to them kidnapping Mithra as part of their plans, but is forced to join them against his will by Deus. He will use Augus' sword, Wailing Dark, after the latter is killed by Asura. He will die in the battle against Chakravartin, and afterwards, he will be reincarnated along with the Demigods.

*His fighting style is the same as Asura's, mainly punching and kicking, occasionally firing blasts of Mantra at opponents. Asura mainly fires fist-shaped Mantra bullets, Augus and Yasha's Mantra attacks are in the shape of blades, and Deus and Wyzen fire large sphere-shaped blasts of Mantra. Nekora's will be in the form of lasers, fired from his fingertips. They might not do much damage, but they have speed, meaning his opponents won't be able to dodge them.

I will reveal more details about him in later chapters, so you'll have to wait a while until you can learn more about him. Chapter 2 will be posted on Friday. See you then.

3. Formation of the Seven Deities

Here's chapter 2 of The Ninth Guardian General. Hope you enjoy.

I do not own Asura's Wrath, just my OC.

Chapter 2: Formation of the Seven Deities

*** * ***

>Asura's Residence

It was the day after Asura had defeated Vlitra, and the three Demigods had finally arrived at the residence after recovering from their battle. When they got there, they saw Durga and Mithra waiting for them.

"Asura, Yasha, Nekora. Welcome back!" she greeted them.

Mithra then ran towards her father and captured him in a hug, causing him to stumble back a bit.

"Father! I was so worried about you!" she said as she started crying.

"I'm glad you're safe, Asura." Durga added, walking towards him.

"Thank you, Durga. I'll be alright now."

"Welcome home, Father." Mithra said.

"Hey. What about me and Yasha?" Nekora chimed in, not wanting to be forgotten.

"Oh, sorry. I'm glad you're okay, Uncle, Nekora."

"It's alright. And I'm glad you're okay, too, Mithra."

A Kagebosh then appeared behind them.

"General Asura, the Emperor summons you. He awaits your presence in the throne room." it said.

"I wonder if he's going to present you with a medal for defeating Vlitra." Mithra responded.

"She's right. You mustn't keep the Emperor waiting." Durga told him.

"Alright. I'll be back soon." Asura said, before walking off with the soldier.

"Well, as much as I want to stay, I have to go see Master Augus for something, so I'll be leaving too. I'll see you later, Mithra, Durga." Nekora added.

"Hey, Nekora." Mithra said, stopping him before he left.

"Yeah? What is it?" he asked.

She walked up to him and gave him a quick kiss, causing him to blush lightly.

"Come back soon, okay?"

"Oh, uh. Yeah, I will, don't worry."

He then returned the kiss, causing her to blush as well, before he headed off to find his teacher.

"And I have to meet up with the other Generals to discuss our next plan of action against the Gohma." Yasha told them, before leaving.

After they left, Durga turned to her daughter.

"You really like Nekora, don't you, Mithra?" she asked.

"Y-yeah, I do. He's really nice and always gets me a gift after he returns from his visits to Gaea."

"I see. I'm glad that you think that way about him. Despite his relations to the other Demigods, he is a very calm and caring boy. Oh, I almost forgot. We should probably head inside now and prepare a meal for Asura when he gets back."

"Alright, I'm coming, mother."

* * *

>With Asura

When he arrived, he saw Emperor Strada waiting for him. He walked towards him and knelt down, waiting for a response. But nothing happened. He looked up at the Emperor and saw that he was swaying back and forth, before turning around and falling over. Asura quickly got up and caught him, and found that the Emperor was dead and drenched in blood. He dropped the corpse in shock, then stared at his hands, which now had Emperor Strada's blood covering them.

"What... what is this?"

He turned around and noticed the Kagebosh started backing away from him in fear.

"Insurrection! Treachery!" it shouted, tripping over while trying to get away from Asura.

More soldiers arrived, prepared to kill their former General.

"This is treason! General Asura has gone mad!" the soldiers cried out.

"You traitor! Prepare to be executed for your crimes!"

"No! There must be some mistake!" he shouted at them. He then ran out of the hall, avoiding each soldier's attempt to stop him. After exiting the hall, he started running back towards his house, not wanting to be seen by anyone.

"I don't understand! What the hell is happening?" he asked himself.

He was almost home, before he was surrounded by more soldiers, who were being lead by Wyzen.

"Asura! You traitorous filth!" he yelled at him.

"No! It wasn't me!" he shouted back.

"Silence! Enough of your lies! I shall purify the likes of you myself!"

"Damn you!"

"Now, attack! Kill the traitor!"

The soldiers then began attacking Asura on Wyzen's command. Asura, not wanting to be killed by such fools, started punching anyone who came near him. One of the Dojis tried attacking him from behind, but he caught its weapon and swung it around, knocking it into some other Dojis standing nearby. They eventually managed to surround Asura and attacked him from every direction. Asura then released a large burst of Mantra, sending the soldiers flying and killing most of them. The remaining Dojis decided to fight him at a distance to avoid getting hurt, and began throwing their spears at him. He dodged most of them, but a few of the spears eventually hit him, having been thrown from his blind spot. The Dojis, thinking Asura was wounded enough to restrain, began piling on to him and stabbing him several more times, before he released another shockwave of Mantra and sent them all flying again, this time killing all of them.

* * *

>Asura's Residence

While Durga was busy preparing dinner for when Asura got back, someone entered the house, causing her and Mithra, who was standing nearby, to turn around and saw the man patiently standing there with a smile on his face. He then swiftly attacked Durga, heavily wounding her as she tried to protect Mithra. Satisfied with his mission having been completed so quickly, he turned towards Mithra and knocked her unconscious. He then walked away, carrying the young priestess in his arms and leaving Durga to slowly bleed to death.

* * *

>With Nekora

As he was searching for his master, he heard some nearby soldiers running towards the main hall. Slightly curious, he decided to find out what was going on.

"Hey, can anyone tell me what's happening?"

"General Asura has murdered Emperor Strada in cold blood! We're on our way to kill the traitor!"

'What? Asura killed the Emperor? He would never do such a thing! What is going on here?!' he thought to himself.

Nekora, not believing what the soldier told him, ran back towards Asura's residence, hoping he was there so he could ask him what really happened. When he got there, he saw someone walking away while carrying Mithra.

'What the hell is going on here? Was the Emperor's murder set up, just so they could kidnap Mithra?'

He decided to follow the man to see where he was taking his girlfriend. After tailing him for a while he noticed that they were at the meeting hall. The man then entered a room at the other end of the hall, giving Nekora the chance to quickly run through the hall towards the door, and when he opened it, he saw that Mithra was placed in a glass container. Surrounding it were Deus, Olga, Sergei, Kalrow and Yasha. It seemed as though they were talking about something. At first, he couldn't hear what they were saying, but quickly tuned in to their conversation.

"Our plan is almost complete. Once we kill Asura, then we can begin collecting Mantra from the humans."

"That fool Asura would never understand our reasons for doing this anyway. I find it beneficial to the cause to see him dead." Olga responded.

'They want to kill Asura? And collect Mantra from humans? Why the hell would they do this?! And why is Yasha with them? Shouldn't he be protecting his niece? I have so many questions, but no answers!'

"General Nekora, may I ask what you're doing?"

He turned towards the voice, and saw that he was surrounded by soldiers.

"Oh, I was just leaving." he replied. He tried to get away from them, but was halted again.

"You were listening in on a private conversation, weren't you?" the Rasho asked again.

"So what if I was? Why are there so many of you anyway? Is it something important?"

"Lord Deus has ordered your execution. And it is our duty as soldiers to carry out any order given to us by our superiors."

"What?! I've done nothing to deserve this!"

"Silence! Prepare to die!"

The soldiers then all began attacking him, but he used his superior speed to dodge all the attacks, then began punching and kicking any nearby soldier, occasionally firing Mantra at them from his fingers. He managed to kill most of the soldiers, before being overwhelmed. Not wanting to be killed, Nekora ducked under their attacks and ran out of the meeting hall. The soldiers tried to chase after him, but he had already disappeared.

"Damnit. I don't want to leave Mithra with those freaks, but if I stay, they'll kill me. I'll have to stay out of their sights for a while. They're going to pay for this." he said before jumping onto his corvette. He then activated it and sped off towards Gaea. As he was driving, he shed a few tears at the thought of never seeing Mithra again, before wiping them away with his sleeve.

"I will save you, Mithra. Just wait for me."

* * *

>With Asura

"Still got it in you." Wyzen said, irritated at Asura's resistance.

"Let us cut to the chase. I'll kill you myself!"

He then launched himself towards Asura and tried to punch him, but Asura dodged the attack, causing Wyzen to punch the ground instead. Asura hit him with a punch of his own, sending him flying across the hall. Wyzen got up and started firing blasts of Mantra at Asura, which were countered by his own energy blasts.

"Stop this, Wyzen! I'm innocent!"

"Silence, traitor! You shall die here!"

Wyzen then stopped firing at Asura and, despite being such a large target, managed to dodge all of Asura's attacks and got close enough to punch him into the ground. The spears that were stabbed into Asura's back were pushed in deeper, causing extra damage to him. He ignored the pain and kicked Wyzen off of him. He pulled one of the spears out of his back and slashed at Wyzen with it a few times before throwing it at him, which was blocked with his shield. When he moved the shield, he noticed that Asura was gone.

"Up here, fatass!" Asura shouted at him.

Wyzen looked up just as Asura landed a punch to his face, pushing him into the ground and knocking him out.

After he pulled out the spears, he began running back to his house, hoping that Mithra and Durga were alright. When he got there, he saw that the place was a complete wreck, and Durga was lying on the floor in a pool of blood.

"No! Durga!"

He ran towards her and picked her up.

"Asura... Save her..."

"I will. Just save your strength."

She then whispered something to him, before dying in his arms. He held back his tears and screamed towards the sky, angered at what the other Generals had done to his family.

* * *

>On the Karma Fortress

When Mithra woke up, she noticed she was in a glass container on the ledge of the fortress. She saw Olga, Sergei, Kalrow and her uncle Yasha standing nearby. They then heard an explosion as Asura landed in front of them.

"Father!"

"So, you've arrived Asura." Yasha stated calmly.

"Get out of my way!" he shouted at him in response.

Yasha took off the mask he was wearing.

"Listen to me. We-"

"Move!" Asura shouted once more. He rushed towards Yasha, preparing to attack him, but was struck by lightning, sending him flying backwards.

"Stand down, Yasha." Deus told him.

Yasha responded by putting his mask back on and walking away.

"Deus! So it was you!" Asura exclaimed.

"Yes. I did what was necessary for the cause."

"Cause...? What cause?"

"I have decided to save this world. I will create a new civilization. A great rebirth!"

"Save the world?! What great rebirth?! You're insane!"

Deus laughed in response to Asura's claim.

"I will bear the burden of your wrath and your life, Asura." he told him.

He then began striking him with several blasts of lightning, sending him flying to the edge of the fortress. Asura used the railing as support while trying to get up. Deus slowly walked towards him and picked him up by the throat, lifting him into the air.

"Your death shall be the foundation of my new world!" he said, before blasting Asura with more electricity and destroying the railing behind him. He then let go of Asura and watched him fall towards Gaea.

"No! Father!" Mithra called out to him, before being frozen by Olga.

"Let her go!" Asura yelled at them, despite them not being able to hear him. "I said let her go!"

He screamed in pain as he began entering the atmosphere of the planet, causing him to set on fire.

"I will have my vengeance!" he shouted once more, before plunging into the ground below him.

* * *

>With Nekora

He had finally arrived on Gaea, and was looking for a place to stay while he built up his strength in preparation for the attack on the other Demigods. He then noticed a comet falling from the sky, crashing into the ground and causing a huge explosion.

"What the hell was that?!"

He quickly ran towards where the comet landed, and upon arrival, saw that is was Asura, who was barely recognizable due to the large burns across his body.

"Damnit. They got Asura. So I guess that means that their plan succeeded. Now that he's gone, they'll start slaughtering the humans for their so-called 'cause'. But unfortunately for them, I'm not going to let that happen anytime soon. And while I'm at it, I'll try and get Yasha to come to his senses. Those bastards will live to regret their decision."

To Be Continued

* * *

>I finally finished the second chapter. I've only just started this story, but so far, this chapter took the longest time to type out. I did say previously that Nekora would be forced to join the Deities, but I had a change of plans, and now he's going to hide from the Deities for the 12,000 years Asura is dead, but he'll show his face to them eventually. I hope you enjoyed this chapter, and I'll see you guys next time.

4. Asura's Revival

Here's chapter 3 of The Ninth Guardian General. Hope you enjoy.

I do not own Asura's Wrath. Capcom does. All I own my OC.

Chapter 3: Asura's Revival

* * *

>Naraka

When Asura woke up, he had no idea where he was. He looked around and saw that he was hanging off some sort of tower, and there large pillars nearby, some of them tilted. He looked down and saw complete darkness. He looked up and saw nothing but white light.

"Awake at last, are we?" someone asked him.

He tried to find the source of the voice, but no one was there.

"Where am I?"

"Well, this is Naraka. But I won't bother explaining, because I doubt you would understand. So for now, let's just say you are having a bad dream."

"Who are you?"

"Good question. Not the right one." Asura heard from behind him. He turned towards the voice and saw a small golden spider.

"The right question would be 'Who are you?'" it asked, pointing at him.

"I..."

"Start climbing then, 'I'. However, I would be careful. I trust I need not tell you what would happen should you fall."

So Asura began his long climb up the tower.

"That's it. Up you go. Yes, there is a reason why you must continue to climb, isn't there? You may have forgotten why, but the flame inside you still burns. That's it. Keep going, Asura."

* * *

>In the past

"Asura!"

He opened his eyes to see Augus standing a few metres away.

"These are our enemies. The impure Gohma!" he told him, motioning towards said creatures. Augus then jumped onto a ledge that was behind him.

"Let's see what you make of 'em!"

Asura raced towards the Gohma and furiously began punching them, then blasted them away with a large burst of Mantra, quickly destroying them.

"Not bad, Asura! But don't think you'll come off unscathed! Pain reminds you that you're fighting for your life!" Augus shouted to his student, as another Gohma Howler spawned behind Asura, attacking him and sending him flying. Asura recovered and sped towards the Gohma as it prepared to attack Asura again, but he jumped over the Howler and landed behind it, confusing it for a few seconds. It then turned around and attacked again, but this time Asura stopped it and slammed the Gohma on the ground a few times before punching it through the chest, killing it. A group of Stingers then spawned around him as Augus gave his next command.

"Don't get distracted by multiple enemies, Asura! Concentrate on one at a time! I want you to blast them all out of the sky!"

Asura began rapidly firing blasts of Mantra at the Stingers in an attempt to kill them, but he ran into a bit of trouble because they were too fast and kept dodging his attacks. He eventually got fed up with it, so he jumped onto them one after the other and killed all of them with close-range blasts of Mantra, somewhat successfully completing his given assignment.

"Not bad, Asura! Although you did kill them, it was at close range, not long range. But I guess that doesn't really matter."

Augus then jumped onto a large rock standing behind him.

"It's time for your next challenge!" he shouted, picking up a boulder. "Let's see you shoot this down!"

He started throwing multiple boulders at Asura, all of which were shattered with blasts of Mantra.

"Well done, Asura. You seem to be learning quickly. Now it's time for your final challenge!" Augus shouted. He jumped off the large rock structure and landed a few feet away from Asura.

"Let's see how you do against your own master!"

He then motioned for Asura to make the first move. Asura launched himself towards Augus and tried punching and kicking him, but failed every time as his teacher blocked each hit. He then tried using Mantra attacks against Augus, but they were all countered with his own small energy blasts. Asura eventually managed to get through Augus' defenses and punched him once in the face, then the stomach, and finally sent him flying backwards into the rock structure with an uppercut. Augus then sped towards Asura, stopping directly in front of him.

"Hahaha. You do learn fast. Here's your reward." he said to his student, before headbutting him into the ground, then turning to walk away as Asura tried to get back up.

"That'll be all for today, Asura." he told him.

Asura continued trying to get up, but fell unconscious from the pain.

* * *

>Naraka

Asura finally woke up from the sudden flashback.

"My name is... Asura."

"Yes. That is your name. Asura." the spider responded.

* * *

>Shinkoku

"Destroy him! Asura the traitor!"

The soldiers jumped towards the former General with the intent to kill him. Asura, refusing to die on a day that had already gone by, once again began furiously punching the surrounding Dojis, launching multiple blasts of Mantra at the ones attacking him from the sky, eventually killing all of them. More Dojis then appeared around him, still prepared to kill him. Asura was now pissed off, and decided to finish the battle quickly by releasing a huge burst of Mantra, killing all of the newly arrived soldiers. He slightly fell forward out of exhaustion. He was then surrounded by illusionary soldiers.

"Strada... has been killed. Not General Asura. Treason! The Emperor. Traitor! General Asura has gone mad! Insurrection! Treachery! Traitor!" they all spoke one after the other.

"Shut up!" Asura shouted at them, causing the illusions to disappear. He then turned around and saw Deus standing in front of a Doji, Kagebosh, Rasho and Taison.

"The traitor, Asura, has been defeated!" he shouted to the soldiers, as he attacked Asura with lightning.

"No! Father!" he heard Mithra crying as he fell through the dark sky.

* * *

>Naraka

Asura woke up from his second flashback after hearing Mithra's cries.

"Deus said he would save the world. Are you satisfied with being a cog in his machine? Or you could just curl up and die right here." the spider said, not waiting for answer.

"Shut up..." Asura responded.

"Hmm? What's the matter? Have I angered you?" it asked him.

"No. It's not you."

"Not me?"

"The crying."

"Crying? In Naraka? There is nothing to hear but the sound of my voice." it told him.

Asura then started quickly climbing up the tower, finally reaching the top, while shouting for the crying to stop.

* * *

>On Gaea

Nekora had been living rather peacefully on Gaea for the last 12,000 years. Or at least he would have, if the humans hadn't kept worshipping him, thinking he was working with the Seven Deities. Other than that, he had somewhat managed to halt each of the Deities' attempts to harvest Mantra from collecting human souls. As he was resting after fighting the Deities, he felt the earth start to shake, before sensing a large explosion of Mantra somewhere far away.

"That Mantra signature... Does this mean that Asura's alive again?"

He thought about leaving the village and heading to the site of the explosion, but if he did, that would leave the village defenseless against the Seven Deities' next "purification", and Nekora wasn't about to let that happen.

"Damn. I want to be the first to greet him after 12,000 long years, but I have to protect the humans. I guess I'll have to wait for now.

* * *

>With Asura

As Asura reawakened, the earth around him began to shatter into large chunks before dissipating from the explosion.

"What the...? What is this?"

"Your world. Gaea." the spider answered. "12,000 years have passed since you were here last. But that's nothing to a Demigod like yourself, now is it?"

"Is this how you save the world?" Asura asked. "This place looks like hell."

To Be Continued

* * *

>Well, chapter 3 is finished. I hope you guys enjoyed. Feel free to post a review about your thoughts on this chapter, and the earlier ones, if you want. I'll post the next chapter on either Friday or Saturday. I will see you then.

5. Author's Note

I'm going to be taking a 3-day break from writing more chapters for The Ninth Guardian General. I'm glad that there are some Fanfiction users that enjoy this story. Please feel free to leave a review for each chapter as they come out. Thank you, and I'll see you guys later.

End
file.